Margaret passed away peacefully early in the morning on Monday in Bowes House in Hailsham, holding David's hand. Previously she had been lovingly looked after for three weeks at Saint Wilfrid's hospice in Eastbourne.

Margaret was diagnosed with breast cancer in the early 1980s, and the life she lived consequently has been an inspiration to many others. The cancer returned, and Mum was given her terminal diagnosis nine years ago. She continued to live a life quietly helping other people, many of whom we know will be coming to the service in Hellingly. We look forward to seeing you there.

She actively supported very many charities, but the one that was closest to her heart in recent years was Mary's Meals. If you are not familiar with their remarkable and effective work, please find out more on their website: www.marysmeals.org.uk

No flowers please: Mum hoped people coming to her thanksgiving service would consider donating to, or better still becoming supporters of, Mary's Meals.
